DOMESTIC ABUSE DEFINITION

Domestic abuse is any incident of threatening behaviour, violence or abuse (psychological, physical, sexual, financial or emotional) between adults who are, or have been, intimate partners or family members, regardless of gender or sexuality. This includes issues of concern to black and minority ethnic (BME) communities such as 'honour killings'.

Domestic abuse frequently co-exists with child abuse

Any incident of threatening behaviour, violence or abuse	This can also involve the misuse of power and control
(psychological, physical, sexual, financial or emotional)	Also, movement restriction and imposition of social isolation. It is most commonly a combination of all of these.
between adults	An adult is defined as any person aged 18 years or over
who are or have been intimate partners or family members,	Family members are defined as mother, father, son, daughter, brother, sister, and grandparents, whether directly related, in laws or stepfamily
regardless of gender or sexuality	Also, age, race, wealth, and geography
This includes issues of concern to black and minority ethnic (BME) communities such as so called 'honour killings'.	Also, other groups such as older people, men, same-sex relationships and people with disabilities
Domestic abuse frequently co-exists with child abuse.	And should always be considered as a child protection issue.

MARACs (Multi Agency Risk Assessment Conferences)

MARACs produce a multi agency response for very high risk domestic abuse victims where up to date risk information is combined with a comprehensive assessment of the victims needs to enable appropriate services to be put in place for all those involved in the case.

In order to make a referral to the MARAC process, please telephone 0845 045 4545 (Hampshire Police) and ask the operator to connect you to the MARAC co-ordinator for your geographical area

NORTH EAST HAMPSHIRE DOMESTIC VIOLENCE FORUM

The North East Hampshire Domestic Violence Forum endeavours to bring together representatives from the many statutory, voluntary and private agencies that deal with the difficult and complex issues surrounding domestic violence/abuse.

The forum works towards establishing an accurate picture of the nature and extent of domestic violence within the communities of Rushmoor and Hart; increasing public awareness; signposting; identifying gaps in provision of services; producing and disseminating information; organising training and awareness; encouraging multi-agency working and implementing projects.

The forum meets bi monthly.

SAFETY PLANNING

1. Arrange where you might go if you have to leave urgently
2. Find places where you can quickly and safely use the telephone
3. If you have children, teach them how to dial 999 and make up a code word that you can use when you need help
4. Carry a list of telephone numbers for support services and friends
5. Try to save money so that you have bus or taxi fares in an emergency
6. Get an extra set of keys for the house and car and keep these in a safe place, with money and anything else you may need should you have to leave quickly
7. Talk to your children and let them know it is not their fault
8. Talk to trusted friends, relatives, your doctor or nurse about how you feel.
9. Consider opening a savings account in your name
10. Always try to take your children with you or make arrangements to leave them somewhere safe if this is not possible
11. Make plans for pets, if you are unable to take them with you
12. Consider visiting your local Citizens Advice Bureau or a solicitor to discuss what options are available to you
13. If possible, try to get any potential weapons out of the house
14. Try to do things which would get you out of the house, such as walking your dog, putting out the rubbish or going to the shops to practice how you would leave.
15. Consider leaving a bag with a trusted friend or relative containing the items you would need if you had to leave urgently. Also consider who may lend you money in an emergency.

DEAF AWARENESS

As around 1 in 7 people have some form of deafness, the following tips have been provided by deafPLUS for how you can help.

- Ensure BSL (British Sign Language) interpreters are offered to people who sign
- Ensure a loop system is fitted to all rooms and if this is not possible, a portable loop is available and regularly tested
- If the person relies on lip reading, it is important to ask where the person would like to sit in a room as lighting and positioning can make a big difference
- Ensure that you are facing a deaf person when speaking to them and that you speak clearly – shouting or speaking slower than normal distorts the lip pattern and makes lip reading harder
- Ensure that you don't put your hands to your face as this obscured the mouth for lip reading
- Cut out as much background noise as possibly

Ensure you offer a fax number, email and text number (where possible) on publicity and request that people who may require communication support contact you with their requirements.

BLIND AND PARTIALLY SIGHTED PERSONS

The Home Office Domestic Violence leaflet is available in Braille and also on audio tape and can be obtained by telephoning 0870 241 4680

To make leaflets and printed information accessible for partially sighted people it is recommended that you follow RNIB Clear Point guidelines which include a minimum font size of 14 points and that you left align the print. For full details of the Clear Print Guidelines and details about the RNIB See It Right pack see:

INFORMATION FOR PEOPLE WHO ARE BEING BULLIED OR HARASSED VIA SOCIAL NETWORK SITES, THROUGH THEIR COMPUTERS, OR PHONES

Whilst the internet can help provide greater safety and a wealth of resources it can also be used as a means of intimidating, stalking or harassing people.

By taking some steps, you can help to improve your safety and reduce the chances of being abused or controlled through electronic and mobile communication means.

Computers

Have your computer checked for spy software, using an anti-spyware programme

If you are unsure if your computer is 'safe' use a friend's computer or one in a library and delete your history when you have finished

Phones

Change your mobile and SIM Card

Do not answer calls or texts from the person who is bothering you or being malicious towards you

Save any abusive text or voice messages for evidence

Make sure you have caller ID and an answer machine on landlines so that you can screen calls

Contact your provider to see if you are able to block callers

Email / Internet

Change your email addresses and make sure the new one is anonymous by not using your name or nickname

Save any abusive emails as evidence but do not reply to them

Use a different provider and create multiple addresses for different purposes – e.g. trusted friends, social network, financial

Online Accounts

Delete ALL your existing online accounts and use your new email addresses

Passwords

Create completely new passwords and make sure they are not easy to guess by someone who knows you

Social Networks

Delete any dormant or unused accounts so they can't be resurrected by someone else

Close your existing account, or if this is not possible, block the person who is bothering you

Open a new account with a less popular site, using an obscure name, information and without your picture

Only add your most trusted friends and make sure you and your friends have the highest privacy settings

Ask friends not to post photos or messages about you on line

For detailed technical advice go to www.e-victims.org

If you have just ended a relationship Be aware that your ex partner may try to contact or harass you so be prepared. Advise your employers, family members and friends that you do not wish to have any contact with your ex and not to give them your details whatever the excuse.

What to do if you are being stalked or harassed

If you are the victim of stalking or harassment, you should contact the police on 0845 045 4545 or 999 in an emergency.

Under the Protection from Harassment Act 1997, you only need to report two separate occurrences to the police before they can act.

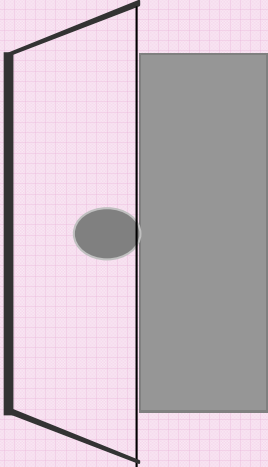

Try to gather evidence for the police such as:

- ▶ A diary of what has happened, what time and date
- ▶ A copy of chat conversations or postings online
- ▶ Make a note of the date, time and telephone number by dialling 1471 after the call is terminated.

Contact your telephone's Malicious Calls Section for help

Consult the e-Victims website for factsheets and detailed information about how to close accounts, set up new accounts and information you should keep confidential on your sites
