Representation:

We note from the census data included in the plan that travel to work by bicycle or on foot has dropped from 9.7% in 2011 to 2.2% in 2021. Alongside the rise in ownership of 2-3 vehicles per household, we consider this concerning as it is not consistent with the local area's aims around climate change, sustainability, and physical activity. We note and support the detail in the plan around recreational physical activity and preservation of paths and outdoor spaces but feel there could be more focus on encouraging a modal shift from journeys to work, school, and other activities by car, to journeys using active travel.

Recommendation: To specifically refer to active travel within the plan (e.g., in relation to car parking, paths, and housing), and include any specific actions to address the drop in journeys by bicycle or on foot detailed in paragraph 7.55.
