Effective date	February 2019
Equality Impact Assessment: (EIA)	Date undertaken:	14 December 2012
	Issues (if any):	None

1. How to tell us what you think of us!

We hope that you will be happy with all the services you receive from us. We aim to provide our services in a helpful and approachable way, being responsive to your needs and taking ownership of the solutions.

We are committed to providing our customers with a professional, personal and friendly service. We want to deliver the best possible service to all our residents and visitors and so we have published customer service standards being available online, on request and in our receptions.

2. Compliments – Please tell us when we get it right

Most of the time we get it right and we'd love to hear from you when we do by going online www.hart.gov.uk/feedback or by completing the form at the end of this document. We can then see what we do well and repeat the good experience for our other customers.

3. Comments – How to tell us your views or suggestions

When you contact the Council, sometimes you may feel you have some views on how we delivered that service or suggestions on the way we can improve the way we do things.

You may not want to make a complaint, as there may not have been any problem – but want to help us improve our understanding of our customers, their expectations and how they access our services.

Please tell us by going online www.hart.gov.uk/feedback or by completing the form at the end of this document.

4. Council Policies

There are times when you may not agree with a council policy. If you want to get a policy changed, the best thing to do is write or email:

- the relevant officer in the Council. If in doubt, write to the Chief Executive who will direct your letter to the appropriate officer.
- your local councillor – you can find their names at www.hart.gov.uk/district-councillors
- the lead cabinet member with responsibility for the area of the policy - you can find the details at www.hart.gov.uk/councillors.

It will help them if you explain why you think the policy is wrong or unfair and what you think needs to be done to change it.

If you think we have not followed a policy properly, then contact the team who made the decision and ask them to look at their decision again. If you are still not happy, then you can make a formal complaint.

5. Complaints - How to complain to the Council

We are only human; occasionally we do get it wrong.

If this happens or you feel that our services are generally not up to scratch then let us know - we will do all we can to investigate and solve problems as quickly as possible. The best thing to do is to either phone or email the team to see if you can get things sorted. Hopefully, this means we can get things put right quickly and without fuss.

But there are times when you may still want to put in a formal complaint. The guidance below spells out how you can do this.

6. What is a complaint?

We think a complaint is “any expression of dissatisfaction, about the standard of service, actions or lack of action, by the council, its staff or its partners and contractors, which affects an individual customer”.

You don't need to make a formal complaint if you want to report:

- a missed bin collection
- graffiti or litter
- abandoned cars
- the need for grass cutting

You can simply call us, email us or report it through our website and we will do our best to investigate and get it sorted. If we still haven't got it right then we need to know.

7. There will be times when we can't or will not deal with your complaint

There are a number of reasons why we might not deal with your complaint. We will not normally look at a complaint if:

- you have left it more than 3 months since knowing about the problem.
- you are not personally affected – for example the issue affects most people in the area but not you personally
- you have not been caused an injustice
- the matter complained about is so trivial that it would not be in the public interest to pursue it further
- the complaint appears to be vexatious, politically motivated, tit-for-tat or made by a persistent complainant
- it appears to reopen a previously concluded service complaint or to have a service complaint reconsidered
- you have the right of formal appeal or can take legal action and we think it is reasonable for you to do so. This might be to:
 - a tribunal (such as the Housing Benefit Appeals Service)
 - a government minister (such as a planning appeal)
 - Penalty Charge Notice (PCN) appeals
 - the courts
- it is about personnel matters (such as your employment or disciplinary issues)
- if you're concerned about your council tax banding, as this is dealt with by the District Valuation Agency.

Our complaints procedure cannot be used to question, review or overturn a planning decision. We also will not normally consider a complaint about an application until a decision has been made. This is because even if we have done something wrong, we do not know until that point whether the fault will affect the outcome.

We will also not investigate a complaint if it relates solely to private matters between you and your neighbour, like a dispute about land ownership

As with all complaints, we will not uphold your complaint if it turns out that the council followed the proper procedures, relevant legislation and guidance and considered the objections made but came to a decision you disagree with.

If you are not sure who to contact, you don't need to worry as we'll let you know who to contact and how.

8. How can complaints be made?

We encourage anyone who has a complaint to first speak to a member of staff in the respective service. If the problem can be solved on the spot then there is no need for the issue to go through the formal complaints process.

However if the complaint cannot be dealt with immediately or you wish to have a formal response, there are a number of ways you can complain to us:

- On the council's comments form (attached below)
- In person at the council office
- By letter or telephone¹ By email
- Via your local councillor
- Via a representative who has permission to act on your behalf.

9. Things to include in your complaint

Make sure you give us as much information as possible. Tell us what you think we have done and also explain clearly what outcome you want to achieve in your complaint. But be realistic; your aims need to be fair and proportionate to the problems you have had.

10. When can you make a complaint?

It is far easier to find out what happened and put things right if a complaint is received as soon as something has gone wrong. As time passes it becomes more difficult to investigate events fully and fairly, and for this reason we will normally only accept complaints made within three months of when things went wrong. If you do not contact us within that time, we will normally take no action on your complaint. But we will consider any exceptional reasons for not meeting this time limit.

11. Confidentiality

Generally we will avoid disclosing your personal details but in some cases, for example where the complaint alleges criminal behaviour, we may need to pass those details on to someone else, such as the police.

12. So here is what to do when you are NOT happy with our service

STEP ONE

Initially, you should raise concerns with the member of staff or service that you are dealing with, so that they may seek to resolve matters direct. We aim to resolve everything at this stage.

¹ We can take your complaint by telephone, although it is helpful to have it in writing so that we have a clear record of what went wrong. However if want to make a complaint verbally over the telephone or in person, staff will do their best to record your complaint.

STEP TWO

If you are still unhappy your complaint will be considered by a senior member of staff. This is known as Step 2. To ensure there is no misunderstanding, it should normally be made, in writing, to:

- E-mail complaints@hart.gov.uk
- The relevant Head of Service or Service Manager concerned.

You should do this within 28 days of receipt of the Step 1 response and our target is to provide a full response within 10 working days. Please ensure that you tell us you have already spoken to an officer about this.

13. Still not satisfied?

STEP THREE

The Council's Heads of Service or Service Managers have the authority to make judgements on your complaints and come to decisions. However, if you disagree with the decision and explain why, the Chief Executive may agree to review whether the decision was reasonable. You should do this within 28 days of receipt of the Step 2 response. To escalate to Step 3 please email chiefexecutive@hart.gov.uk

This is the final stage of the Council's internal complaints procedure. You will need to explain why the initial responses have not resolved your complaint, what actions you now require to have it resolved, and what outcome you would like to see. We aim to respond to Step 3 complaints within 20 working days.

Please note, the review is neutral. It will consider your comments and those of the staff involved. It will not normally be a reinvestigation of the whole complaint, rather it will seek to establish whether the response by the Head of Service or Service Manager at Step 2, was reasonable.

After you have received our decision on your complaint we will not carry out a further review of the same matter, unless you raise new issues that we consider significant. We will not continue correspondence on complaints already dealt with at Step 3.

If more than 28 days goes by between the above steps without us hearing from you, we will assume the matter has been dealt with satisfactorily and the complaint will be closed.

14. What if you are still not happy?

We will not continue to correspond with you about your complaint once we have completed our Step Three review so if you are still not satisfied with the answers and you feel that there has been maladministration by the Council, you should contact the Local Government Ombudsman.

Maladministration is not defined but can include:

- delay
- incorrect action or failure to take any action
- failure to follow procedures or the law
- failure to provide information
- inadequate record-keeping
- failure to investigate
- failure to reply
- misleading or inaccurate statements

- inadequate liaison
- inadequate consultation
- broken promises

The Ombudsman does not usually review a decision which has been properly taken simply because someone disagrees with it but the Ombudsman will look at the way the decision was made. The Ombudsman will also not normally consider a complaint that has not been through the Council's procedure. Leaflets outlining the Ombudsman Procedure can be downloaded at www.lgo.org.uk/making-a-complaint

15. Anonymous complaints, whistle blowing and fraud

We don't encourage anonymous complaints but we will do our best to investigate any that we do get. If we know who you are and keep in touch with you, it will help us investigate things better and more quickly.

If you believe a member of staff or someone who works for the council has been involved in fraud or corruption, you can speak to someone in our audit team to report a fraud by emailing fraud@hart.gov.uk or let the police know.

16. Equal opportunities

We are committed to providing services for all our customers. We will do our best to provide access to information and services in a way which suits your needs. For disabled people or people with additional needs, we will try to provide extra help such as:

- Providing a British Sign Language (BSL)/English interpreter if necessary
- Making this document available in other appropriate formats (i.e. Braille, audio or large print)
- Offering an interpreter service for anyone who needs it
- Offering officer assistance for those who have difficulties with reading/writing.

We would like to find out if we are giving as good a service as we can to ALL complainants. To help us do this, please complete the equality monitoring questions at the end of the comments form. This information will not affect the way in which your complaint is handled.

17. Dealing with persistent, vexatious and unreasonable customer behaviour

Criticism and complaints against the Council are a welcome and legitimate part of the relationship between the Council and its local community. They are a valuable source of feedback on the operations of the Council and assist in improving service quality. Most complainants pursue their complaints in a reasonable and acceptable manner. A very small minority, however:

- persist unreasonably with their complaints (persistent complainants)
- or make complaints in order to make life difficult for the Council rather than to genuinely resolve a grievance (vexatious complainants)
- or are abusive, offensive or threatening (unreasonable complainants)

In these instances, the Council we may decide to deal with such complaints as part of its published policy for dealing with persistent, vexatious and unreasonable customer behaviour.
